FREEDOM RIDER

THAT GIRL
TOLD TALES
ON WHICH A GENERATION WAS RAISED

Some gifts keep on giving. Take what Marlo Thomas (left, in 1974) calls the "little record" she made for her niece in 1972. "There weren't any stories for kids that had caught up to where we were in society," says the That Girl star. "I didn't want her to depend on the same fairy tales I had been raised on, the ones where a girl must find a prince in order to find happiness." So she produced Marlo Thomas and Friends: Free to Be... You and Me.

The record sold more than half a million copies, garnered a Grammy nomination and spawned both a best-selling book and the 1974 Emmy and Peabody award-winning ABC special, Free to Be..., which has a rare rebroadcast this week (TV Land, August 24, 8 P.M./ET). It stars Thomas, Alan Alda, Michael Jackson and Mel Brooks, among others. Like the album, its aim was to teach kids about self-awareness, tolerance and gender equality.

Thomas was confident that her young viewers could handle the lessons, but network executives weren't so sure. "There was some concern about several songs," she says, "but I fought it, because they needed to be there." One number, "William's Doll," was about a boy who longed to play with dolls, another, "Parents Are People," portrayed Thomas and Harry Belafonte as interracial parents. "It went after every stereotype and just chipped away at it," Thomas says. For the song "It's All Right to Cry," she brought on football great Rosie Grier—"a big bruiser," she says—to drive home the song's message. "One man told me that his son was 2 years old and he was going to play the record for him every day. He didn't want his son to plug up his emotions the way he had done all his life," she says.

Twenty-seven years later, Thomas is constantly reminded of her contribution to childhood culture. "When I played Jennifer Aniston's mother on Friends, the whole cast told me how they'd been brought up on it," she says, laughing. She believes that Free to Be... remains just as relevant to kids today. "Every generation of kids has to find out for themselves that it's OK to be exactly who they are and that they don't have to pretend to be something they're not." —Art Smith

HOLY HOT ROD HYPE

AN ENDURING ICON, THE BATMOBILE DRIVES BACK INTO THE SPOTLIGHT

Atomic batteries to power! Turbines to speed! The Batmobile is ready to move out. Again. The world's most famous custom vehicle—a 1955 Lincoln Futura concept car retooled by George Barris for ABC's 1966-68 Batman series—is back in the fast lane. The August 21 VHS/DVD release of "Batman: The Movie," to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the big-screen adventure spin-off of the camp classic show, includes a tour of the car guided by Barris. "I've got so many cars—The Munsters, The Beverly Hillbillies, 'Back to the Future'—but the No. 1 they ask for is the Batmobile," says Barris. Still, not everyone is a die-hard fan. "It was created to photograph like an ingenue," says Adam West, who played the Caped Crusader (above, right, with Burt Ward). "But to drive it was unforgiving. Half the time I'd have bruises from trying to get in too quickly. But everybody loves that car. It wasn't slick and futuristic like the new movies. It had a fun look."

Meanwhile, far from Gotham City, Mark Wahlberg buys the Batmobile in "Rock Star," opening September 7. Wahlberg (above, left) plays a musician catapulted to fame when he replaces the lead singer of his favorite band. In the movie, the Batmobile is "a symbol of excess," says director Stephen Herek, who adds that working with the vehicle "was a dream come true. As a kid you always fantasized about driving the Batmobile." —Frank DeCaro

SQUIGGLE NO MORE

A moment of silence, toon buffs: Squigglevision has squiggled its last. Boston-based animation producer Tom Snyder and his crew have officially retired the signature low-res visual style they employed on Dr. Katz: Professional Therapist (right). Instead they're embracing Internet-ready Flash animation.

The technology upgrade is just one of several recent developments at Soup2Nuts, the new moniker for the entertainment division of Snyder's self-named animation outfit. (The name change was made partly to avoid confusion with the former late-night talk host.) On September 2, its short-lived UPN series Home Movies (above, left) gets a relaunch on Cartoon

Network's new Adult Swim programming block. In addition, the company's series of shorts, Hey Monie, just completed a second season on Oxygen. In the works are an MTV pilot with Mr. Show's David Cross and Commander in Chief, a pilot for Nickelodeon spin-off network Noggin, about a 13-year-old president.

Just don't look for them to squiggle. "To my eye, Squigglevision worked," Snyder says, sighing. But, he adds, "For every person who thought it was cool, there were three who said, 'Oh, yeah, the thing where it's kind of blurry and you get a headache.'" We can only wonder what Dr. Katz would have prescribed. —Tom Russo

GREEN ACRES TO EXPAND ITS APPEAL, RESURRECTION BLVD. TURNS TO BRIAN A. GREEN

Everybody wants a knight in shining armor to come to the rescue. So how about a hot young guy in an LAPD cruiser? If the cop is Brian A. Green and the show is Resurrection Blvd. (Showtime Tuesdays, 10 P.M./ET), that just might do the trick.

The Beverly Hills 90210 alum (formerly known as Brian Austin Green) is—along with African-American newcomer Leon Robinson, a new time slot and a focus on romance over boxing—helping to broaden the appeal of the Latino family drama. Green, 28, joined the series this season as Luke Bonner, a police officer and part-time law student who romances Yolanda Santiago (Ruth Livier, above, with Green).

"We're constantly discussing the diversity issue," says creator and executive producer Dennis Leoni. "Jerry Offsay [president of Showtime] wanted to diversify the cast...to attract a diverse audience." So Leoni recruited both Green and Robinson.

"Obviously, Brian brings a lot to the show other than diversity," says Leoni. Such as former 90210 fans. "Our numbers are up [4 percent] among women 18 to 49." —Rochell D. Thomas

HI, I'M ART VANDELAY

WOULD YOU TAKE THIS MAN'S FOOD ADVICE?

KFC has ditched its longtime fictional spokesman, Colonel Sanders, for a new model. Jason Alexander, best known as George Costanza on Seinfeld, is now on a mission to motivate fast-food burger eaters to turn to chicken.

But who would emulate the eating habits of Costanza—a man who once consumed an éclair he found in the trash? (Plus, he's never been the most honest person—or was that his alter ego Art Vandelay?) Of course, Alexander could have his own reasons to promote KFC: He wants viewers to tune in to his new series, Bob Patterson, on ABC this fall. He'll star as a motivational pitchman. Maybe "Eat more poultry" is his first message to the people. —Amy Kover

WONDER WOMEN

THESE DOCS ARE DEFINITELY FOR REAL

You won't find any immunity challenges on this reality series, just real women challenging their skills in pursuit of saving lives. Camera crews shadow female physicians in seven U.S. hospitals for Lifetime's Women Docs (debuting August 11, 10 P.M./ET), in which all-night bedside vigils and apologetic phone calls to their own family members are standard practice. "They balance an emotionally draining career and a home life with friends, lovers and children," says executive producer Glenda Hersh. And soon there'll be more doctors in our living rooms. TNT is in production on Residents, about real doctors in their first year of residency. That's as close as most of us will get to a house call these days. —Paul S. Katz

Do you recognize the man at right? It's Alan Alda, of MASH fame, who recently landed his 17th Emmy acting nomination for his role as Willie Walters, the surly, hair-impaired agent in Showtime's Club Land. Does it get old getting nominated? "No," says

REPEAT CONTENDER

Alda. "It's great. I'm very proud of what I did. It really is completely different from anything I've ever done." As it turns out, being bald wasn't so bad either (even if he did have to shave his head). "I thought, 'This is the worst it could be? This is fine,'" he says. "Now if I lose my hair, I won't care."

BACK TO COURT

Look for Jill Eikenberry (left) and husband Michael Tucker to take part in the L.A. Law reunion movie. Eikenberry says they were approached by NBC to do the flick and that creator Steven Bochco—who will not be involved with the project—gave them his personal OK. "We've just had some preliminary calls, but things are slowly gearing up," says Eikenberry, who played attorney Ann Kelsey from 1986 to 1994. "I'm excited about doing this." So is NBC, which hopes to air the movie as part of its 75th-anniversary season (2001–2002). It's been seven years since the Emmy award-winning ensemble drama about a ritzy law firm closed shop. But it didn't disappear completely. Since last year, A&E has been airing L.A. Law reruns daily.

ELLEN'S
REAL DEAL

Calista Flockhart (below) has been losing lots of sleep this summer, but it has nothing to do with the changes coming up on the fifth season of Fox's Ally McBeal. (There are four new cast members, Robert Downey Jr. is gone, and Lisa Nicole Carson and Lucy Liu are no longer series regulars.) Nope, it's her adopted 8-month-old baby boy, Liam, who's keeping her up. "He's not really sleeping through the night yet," she says. "I just spent two months being a full-time mom (she vacationed in Hawaii for half the time), so this is a particularly hard year for me to go back to [work]."

SLEEP-DEPRIVED

"It's what I've been waiting for for three years—to get back on the air and make people laugh." So says Ellen DeGeneres (below), whose new CBS comedy, The Ellen Show, goes head-to-head with ABC's The Mole II this fall. Her take on reality TV? "I'm embarrassed to say I watched Temptation Island," as well as Survivor and Fear Factor. "It's kind of gotten out of control," says DeGeneres, who no doubt will spoof the reality trend when she hosts the Emmys, on CBS, September 16. "These are real lives we are watching, real relationships falling apart."

cheers AND JEERS

JEERS to an overdose of dosing. Not since Grace Slick threatened to lace Tricia Nixon's White House tea with LSD has mickey-slipping drawn such pop-culture attention. These days, the drug of choice (at least for TV scriptwriters) is Ecstasy. In recent weeks, we've counted three programs in which the illicit drug has fallen into the hands of unsuspecting characters. Both HBO's Six Feet Under and Showtime's Resurrection Blvd. used the same old device of having a drug taker hide the stash in a bottle of aspirin—now there's a bright idea!—only to send a headache-suffering family member on an unplanned trip. Both shows presented the dosing as a harmless lark (somewhere, Jerry Garcia is smiling), turning the plot device from being merely unimaginative to downright irresponsible. At least ABC's All My Children stopped short of actual consumption (an E-laced candy necklace was snatched from an unsuspecting kid's backpack just in time). Still, E-nough already.

CHEERS to HBO's divine intervention. What is arguably the best stage play of the 1990s might finally reach a wider audience: Tony Kushner's Pulitzer Prize-winning "Angels in America" is in development as an HBO miniseries. The play, which blends comedy, drama, fantasy and reality—perhaps the only way to depict the AIDS-ravaged early 1980s—was presented on Broadway nearly 10 years ago in two three-hour parts, making a faithful feature film or TV-movie adaptation all but impossible. The project reportedly is drawing interest from big names—including director Mike Nichols, Al Pacino and Meryl Streep—but Jiminy Glick, the bulbous host of Comedy Central's terrific Prime Time Live, is merely the latest development in the evolutionary path of Martin Short. So what a treat it was to see Short's SCTV-era character Irving Cohen (above), the decrepit songwriting legend who waves a cigar even during a heart attack, on a recent Prime Time episode. Can Jackie Rogers Jr., Ed Grimley or Nathan Thurm be far behind? Let's hope not. —Matt Roush HBO won't confirm. As long as we know there's a chance, we can wait.

JEERS to the unforeseen. Does Miss Cleo put the future on hold? Missouri's attorney general, Jay Nixon, says the TV psychic has illegally billed callers for time spent during a recorded greeting. A lawyer for Cleo denies the allegations. "Miss Cleo should have seen this coming," says Nixon, who just might have a future in stand-up comedy.

WORTH REPEATING

"Comedy Central, drunk on South Park money, has decided to lower the bar significantly." —Comedian Chris Wylde on his new Comedy Central series, The Chris Wylde Show

THE Roush REVIEW

ROUSH

Fall Forecast ADVENTURE GALORE BUT FEW LAUGHS

The official launch of the new fall season is about a month away, but in the spirit of putting this depressing TV summer behind us, I'll let you in on what we'll be talking about soon, if not soon enough.

In a word: action. Thrillers that thrill provide the fall's most stimulating flavors. The top prospect: Fox's 24, which won't show up until October 30 (thanks to postseason baseball) but is definitely worth the wait.

The season's riskiest yet most rewarding storytelling experiment, 24 is an immediately gripping yarn about an assassination plot, with CIA anti-terrorist chief Kiefer Sutherland distracted on the home front by the disappearance of his rebel daughter. What makes 24 distinctive is that the entire season plays out over a single day, with each episode representing one hour, the clock always ticking.

24 makes sophisticated use of split-screen editing to heighten suspense. It's a great idea, visually and viscerally exciting and never so murky as to confuse or scare away viewers.

Also worth a look: ABC's Alias, an improbable but riveting adventure about a grad student (the impressive Jenufer Garner) who doubles as a rogue CIA agent. Sounds silly, but the series creates a dark aura of danger around its heroine's precarious secret identity.

Dispensing comedy
on Scrubs

ABC may also have a sleeper hit with the lightweight caper Thieves, in which the raffish John Stamos and newcomer Melissa George are teamed as cute cat burglars forced to work for the government.

For those with more fantastic tastes, UPN offers Star Trek fans the as-yet-unseen "prequel," Enterprise. And WB finds a new twist on the Superman legend in the evocative Smallville, in which a teen Clark Kent comes to terms with his destiny.

As usual in recent years, the news isn't so good for new comedies.

But among the duds are a handful of offbeat shows, many adopting the Malcolm in the Middle approach of being filmed without laugh tracks. This shortlist includes NBC's Scrubs, a slapstick ER about the chaotic rounds of harried medical interns, and Fox's Undeclared, a college charmer reminiscent of Freaks and Geeks.

And after sitting on the shelf for a year, Fox's giddy comic-book parody The Tick will unveil its gallery of bumbling superheroes. Too bad their nemesis is a doozy: CBS's Survivor: Africa.

MORNING GLORY

Live's Kelly Ripa rises to the occasion, juggling
two kids, two jobs,
her new fame-
and Regis

BY MICHAEL LOGAN

Steamy summer rain is pouring—make that pounding—on the fans lined up outside the Live With Regis and Kelly soundstage in New York City. But their spirits are not dampened, and once inside they laugh giddily during the syndicated show, which features 67-year-old Regis Philbin as the lovable, befuddled crank and 30-year-old Kelly Ripa as his Gracie Allen—part dingbat, part kamikaze. During commercials, the hosts mix with the crowd, posing for photos, accepting gifts. Ripa is bombarded with questions about her husband and All My Children costar Mark Consuelos (she still plays Hayley to his Mateo), their kids, 4-year-old Michael and newcomer Lola Grace (born June 16), and how she manages to “do it all.” Well, how does she do it all? To find out, we met with Ripa after the show in her dressing room-turned-nursery.

TV GUIDE: Your audience marvels at how you combine motherhood and work, but how tough is it, really?

Kelly Ripa: Nobody should be impressed by me. It's very silly to think I'm having a hard time of it, just because I have two jobs and two kids. Puh-leez. The two salaries afford me a nice lifestyle. I can hire people to help me and I have a working spouse. I'm fascinated and deeply impressed by single moms who juggle jobs and kids. They are the ones we should be in awe of.

TVG: You returned to Live five weeks after Lola's birth. Why so quickly?

KR: I had to go back to All My Children 10 days after giving birth to Michael, so this didn't seem rushed at all. In fact, I came back rested and very relaxed. I was given the option of taking more time, but [Live] is not a lot of work for me. There's really only one hour when I'm not with my kids—the hour I'm on the air—and Lola naps right through it and doesn't even know I'm gone. Now, the soap? That's hard work. It's a grind, so I'm working five days my first week back, but after that I'll work one day a week. Meet Uncle Reege: Ripa returns to ABC's AMC August 24, her character gives birth August 29. TVG: Then we shouldn't expect you in a killer story line? KR: I'll come in for balls and weddings, and pretty soon I'll be sitting on the sidelines with [AMC octogenarians] Ruth Warrick and Eileen Herlie talking

KELLY'S FAVORITE TOPIC

Mark Consuelos gamely handles his new role

Oh, the irony. Six years ago, Mark Consuelos (right) and Kelly Ripa were such privacy freaks that they secretly eloped to Las Vegas and didn't tell their parents about it for weeks. Their closest pals, their All My Children costars and the press didn't get wind of the wedding for months. But that was then. Now, nothing about their lives is private and little is sacred, because Ripa has a job where she's paid to dish about her husband, their marriage and, well, you name it. "But that's OK because Kelly is very happy [on Live With Regis and Kelly]," says Consuelos. "And as any husband will tell you, when the wife is happy, it changes life dramatically."

Still, Ripa's new gig hasn't been easy on the 30-year-old Spanish-born actor, who describes himself as "a loner." Strangers on the street give him hell because, according to Ripa's good-natured digs, he spends entirely too much time racing cars and frequenting nudie bars. Casting directors call him in for roles he's not right for, just so they can gush about his wife. And the tabloids have had a field day with the couple, pronouncing their marriage a disaster, painting Consuelos as an unmotivated leech living off his wife's fame and running photos of his early days as "Meaty Mark," a dirty dancer in a Chippendales-type club in Tampa, Florida. "I was a college kid making some money," says Consuelos, of his brief stripping career. Yes, the photos annoy him. "I just wish I hadn't worn that thong. What the hell was I thinking?" But, he adds with a shrug and a laugh, "It can't hurt, and it might help."

That's the Consuelos philosophy. "I don't lose a minute of sleep over the tabloids," he says. "These people are just doing their jobs. It's nothing personal. Besides, Kelly and I would be hypocrites if we yelled and screamed about how much it hurts when we enjoy reading the tabloids ourselves. It's just entertainment." He's confident Ripa's daily tell-all won't become a marriage buster. "I'm not going anywhere, and she's not going anywhere," says Consuelos. "We're in it for the long haul. And on our 50th wedding anniversary, we're going to bring out all the tabloid stories and have a good laugh." —ML about how all these young kids on the show have no appreciation for "the craft." [Laughs] And you know what? I'd be content doing that.

TVG: So you've lost your drive to be a big-deal actress?

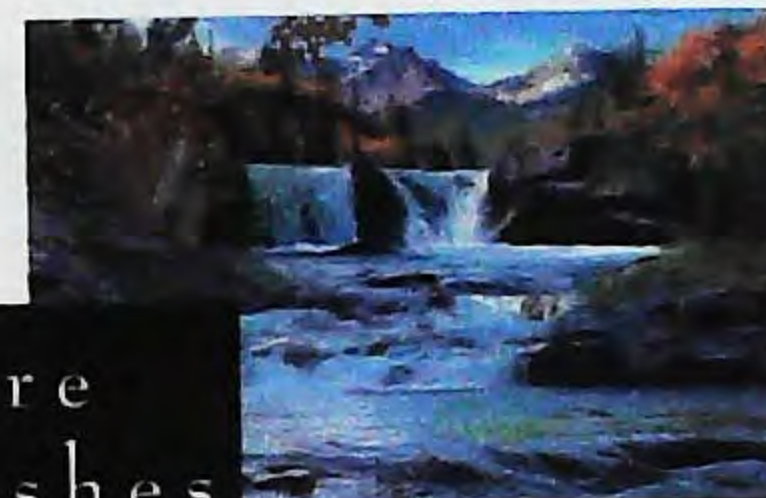

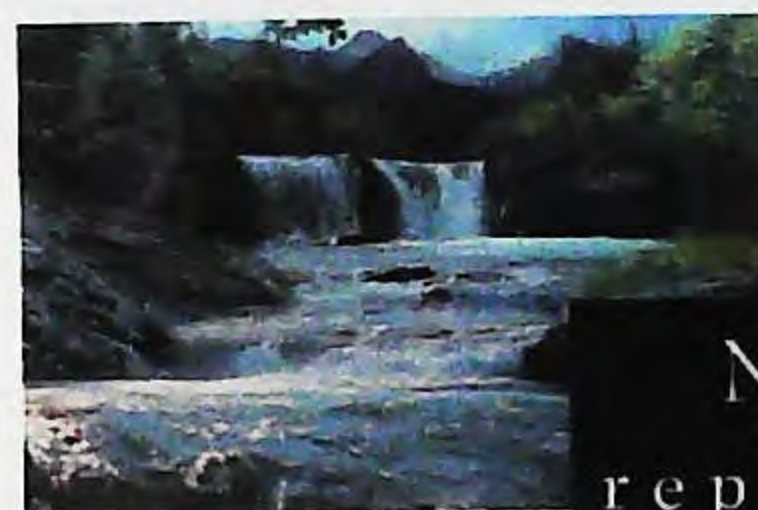

KR: Oh, it still wells up within me. There are days when I'll watch the soaps and think, "If only I'd had that scene, I would have won an Emmy," but that's just my ridiculous ego rearing its ugly head. Having sampled a little fame on Live, I think this is as famous as I want to be.

TVG: Another hot topic in the studio audience: How did you lose the baby weight so quickly?

KR: I really didn't do anything special. I can't diet, not while I'm breastfeeding, and I can't exercise yet because I had a C-section. I think I lost the weight because I felt no pressure to do it. Mark never ever makes me feel anything but beautiful. Even on my worst days when I know he's lying—when I see his Pinocchio nose growing right in front of me—he always makes me feel pretty and sexy.

TVG: Do you want to have more babies?

KR: I'd love to, but Mark says, "No more. We've got one boy and one girl. That's it." But I told him, "Another baby is just a few beers away, buddy boy. So keep yer wits about ya!"

TVG: Ever worry that you talk too much about your kids, something your predecessor, Kathie Lee Gifford, was accused of doing?

KR: When I get close to crossing that line or when I go over it, I get "the look" from Regis. That's when I see his upper lip twitch and I shut up immediately.

You have to be his cohost to recognize it because it's subtle, but it's there and I've grown to appreciate it.

TVG: How are you dealing with life in the media fish-bowl? The tabloid stories about you are getting increasingly wild.

KR: My favorite was the one where Regis supposedly rescued a kitten and gave it to me, but then the kitten tore apart my home so I threw it out into the night and now Regis and I don't speak to each other anymore. The only accurate part of that story was the spelling of my name.

TVG: How do you and Mark deal with the Mr. Kelly Ripa thing?

KR: I don't think Mark has ever looked at himself as Mr. Ripa, and I certainly don't treat him that way. In all fairness, I rode in his shadow for a long time

We'd walk into the [Daytime] Emmys together, and everybody would shriek "Mateo! Mateo!" On a soap, the guys get all the glory, make all the money and get all the best clothes. The girls are curled up in a ball sobbing over their latest rape. So I think Mark's happy that I'm finally getting to feel some glory and that I don't have to work so hard for it.

TVG: Do you think the press will someday go after you the way it went after Kathie Lee?

KR: It's my biggest fear. Kathie Lee is a much stronger person than I will ever be. If that happened to me, I'd probably move to another country, because I don't have the fortitude to go through that. I've tried to toughen up, to develop a crispy shell, but I fear that my son will come home from school someday and say, "Mom, the kids are saying such and such about you—why?" I don't know what I'll do if that happens. I hope I never have to find out.

TVG: Women shout "sexism" when Harrison Ford and Clint Eastwood team on-screen with young babes. Doesn't your older man/younger woman pairing with Regis send out the same message?

KR: You think? [She ponders this for a moment.] Naw, I don't agree. See, I think of Regis as being younger than me, not in years but in spirit. He's got the soul of a kid. He's very cool and timeless, and there's something very juvenile about him—and I mean that in the best way. Like on today's show, he got to talk about a Weenie Launcher [a gun that fires hot dogs], and I could just hear him thinking, "Ha-ha, I get to say weenie on TV!" There may be times I feel like his mother, but I never think of him as the older man. ■

It is late at night and, as usual, Art Bell is alone in a room crammed with radio equipment, listening to a voice that has made its way across the wide, dark Nevada desert to his padded earphones. And as usual, that voice belongs to someone with a very unusual concern. The caller to Bell's "Coast to Coast AM" radio talk show, a nightly exploration of all things weird, sees strange images out of the corner of her eye: blurry black things on the periphery. It could be some common visual malady, she reasons. Or it could be... "shadow people."

"Wow," says Bell, 56, taking a drag on a Carlton. In eight years hosting his overnight talk show, he's heard about alien abductions and Armageddon, ghosts and government conspiracies. But this is new. Soon Bell is inundated with calls and e-mail messages from those who believe shadowy beings inhabit Earth. For Bell, this is gold, the random (he doesn't screen calls) discovery of a subject just vague and creepy enough to intrigue the five to 15 million listeners who tune in on any given night. Callers like these have made his syndicated show America's No. 1 overnight radio program and created a best-seller of his book The Coming Global Superstorm (Pocket Books), written with Whitley Strieber (who claimed to have been abducted by aliens in Communion). The book, a mix of fiction and nonfiction, describes cataclysmic weather changes and is being developed by TBS into a movie. "The book is based on the premise that global warming will begin to affect the weather and ultimately there'll be a gigantic storm," Bell says. "It's a great idea for a movie."

Says Michael Harrison, editor of Talkers magazine, a radio trade journal: "[Bell walks] that very fine line between pure sci-fi and 'What if, maybe, it's real?'"

On a cool spring morning, Bell, fresh from one of two naps he takes each day, is giving a tour of his Pahump, Nevada, compound 60 miles west of Las Vegas. His windswept homestead includes the double-wide mobile home he shares with Ramona, his wife of 10 years, a cinder-block racquetball court and steam room and a 100-foot radio tower. With his black turtleneck, Egyptian medallion and shaded aviator glasses, he looks like a disco guru, not a rugged Westerner. But this is clearly Bell's element. "At night, the Milky Way goes from one side of the horizon to the other," he says. It is the same stretch of sky in which he and his wife once saw a huge triangular flying object. "When it came overhead, the moon went away," Bell says, his voice smoky-smooth. "The stars went away. Dead silence. We stood there and went, 'Oh, my God.' And it just kept truckin'."

His belief in UFOs, his desert locale, his conviction that time-travel is possible (a photo of Jane Seymour from 1980's "Somewhere in Time" hangs in his office) all add to Bell's mystique, as does his lack of cynicism. Bell neither laughs at nor berates his often bizarre callers. "He is so sincere," says Claire Reis, general manager of Las Vegas's KDWN and Bell's friend. "He's very tenderhearted and loving; a good person."

And a bit of a hermit. Most of his time

is spent with only Ramona and two cats for company. A former radio board operator who met Bell at KDWN, Ramona likes their reclusive lifestyle. "I'm a loner, too," she says. She's also a follower of mysticism who makes "protection circles" of apples and flowers in their yard.

But her spells are not enough to completely ward off the bad. On October 13, 1998, Bell disappeared from "Coast to Coast AM" for 15 days. He left without explanation, but after a year passed he told his audience that he had been dealing with a painful family problem. An HIV-positive substitute teacher had been convicted in May 1998 of raping Bell's then-16-year-old son, Art IV, from his first marriage. (The Nevada Supreme Court has since overturned the rape conviction and ordered a new trial. The teacher remains in prison on other charges related to the incident.) "There was no choice except to do what I did," says Bell, explaining that he needed to spend time with his son. Art IV has tested negative for HIV.

In April 2000, Bell quit again, this time to fight a rumor connected to his son's attack. Two shortwave broadcasters from Nashville garbled the story and told listeners that Bell himself was a child molester. Bell filed a defamation lawsuit. "If you don't fight that fight, then all public people are in danger of being subjected to something as horrendous as I went through." Once the suit was settled (he is barred from discussing the terms), Bell returned to work.

Truth is, it would be hard to keep Bell away from the airwaves. He bought his first ham radio at 12 with money made mowing lawns in Stamford, Connecticut. He found talking to others in far-flung places a salvation from the lonely life of a military child. His father, Art II, and his mother, Jane, were both Marines (he has two younger sisters, Jesse and Tina), and Bell spent his formative years traveling. "[Radio] was a stable item in a pretty unstable world," he says. By 13, he was hanging out at radio stations in whatever town his parents were stationed. After high school, Bell served four years in the Air Force. He left the military to become a DJ and, later, a syndicated political talk-show host. He abandoned political chat around 1988 because he was "flat friggin' bored."

A lifelong night owl, Bell found career nirvana when he took over the graveyard shift and began talking about the paranormal. Once he was established, TV came courting, and Bell says he was approached by Fox, NBC and Sci Fi Channel. In one possible scenario, he would have had a late-night talk show opposite Jay Leno.

Although he guest-starred on Millennium and Dark Skies, he refused offers for his own TV show, preferring the spontaneity of radio. "What you can do in five free hours of radio is a world away from what television is," he says.

Bell is a man who knows what he wants, even if he is at a loss to explain his success. "I'm not exactly sure what makes it all work," he says from his porch, looking at miles of cactus and sagebrush, "and it's better that I try not to think about it. It's magical." ■

KOOKY COMMENTATORS! POLYESTER BLAZERS! ON COMEDY CENTRAL'S WILD NEW SERIES LET'S BOWL, CONTESTANTS SETTLE THEIR SQUABBLES BY STRIKING THEM OUT

Let's Bowl debuts Sunday, August 19, 10:30 P.M./ET, on Comedy Central.

ara Troth is fed up. She wants her husband, Daniel, to change his ways. See, Daniel is a clown, and in her mind, a man who calls himself "Bonkers" is somehow not ideal spouse material. Mara wants Daniel to get a "real" job and, while he's at it, cut his long, clownish hair. But Daniel happens to like being a clown, and he also likes his hair just fine the way it is. There's only one place to settle a dispute this ridiculous: Comedy Central's equally silly new series Let's Bowl.

Twenty minutes from downtown Minneapolis, at the fictional Stardust Lanes, Daniel and Mara are hashing out their disagreement pin by pin, on-camera, before a live audience. Neither is what you'd call a proficient bowler, but the Let's Bowl producers haven't picked them for their skills on the lanes. A demented smashup of game show, sports show and sketch-comedy show, Let's Bowl seeks out ordinary Minnesotans with absurd conflicts and lets them resolve them in the most bizarre, cheesed-out manner possible. In lieu of regular game-show booty, Let's Bowl offers its winners such wildly unsexy prizes as an old station wagon, a used snowblower or 500 bucks' worth of sausage. And in place of the usual sober announcers, it offers Rich Kronfeld as Wally, a bitter commentator prone to paranoid, abusive tirades, and Steve Sedahl as his unflappable partner, Chopper.

Then there are the Queen Pins, Amanda Brewer and Lisa Bartholomew, who wear red sequined dresses and perform synchronized dances during competition, and Ernie (Drew Jansen), who says he "keeps toes a-tappin'" with cornball musical accompaniment on keyboards. Another odd twist you won't find on any ESPN bowling show is the Distraction Frame, in which competitors can blast one another with an air horn to throw off each other's concentration. "We're from the Carol Burnett school," says Kronfeld. "We wanted to make Let's Bowl more like a variety show. If it were just half an hour of bowling, it would be too much, you know, bowling."

As Daniel and Mara trade the lead back and forth, Wally—"basically a compulsive, vicious, ill-informed jackass," says Kronfeld—delivers bizarre commentary in a nasal whine. "Never wash your dishes with Drano," he says, apropos of nothing. No matter how weird or obnoxious Wally gets, Chopper steadfastly ignores him, chronicling the game with pitch-perfect, inane play-by-play. "For Chopper, it's all about the bowling," says Sedahl. "He might as well be broadcasting the Olympics from Salt Lake City—that's how important this is to him."

Let's Bowl was created by Minnesota native Tim Scott, who had gotten his start in television production as an intern on a local TV show called Bowlerama. "I had no actual interest in bowling," he says. "But that's where I got the idea you could do a cool bowling show."

In 1995, Scott recruited a cast and crew of locals—Sedahl was a host on a 24-hour shopping channel, Kronfeld did stand-up—and with virtually no financial backing he managed to tape five episodes and air them on a local station. To everyone's surprise, Let's Bowl quickly won a devoted regional following. "We had really cheesy prizes in those early episodes: a can of chili, oil changes," says Sedahl. "But the funny thing was that people actually got into the bowling part of it. We thought it was comedy, but people liked the competition."

After turning it down several times, Comedy Central finally decided last April to give Let's Bowl a roll, ordering a run of 10 episodes. "Sports and comedy are a great match, when you look at the demographic [25- to 34-year-old males] we're trying to hit," says Debbie Liebling, the channel's senior vice president of original programming and development. "So [the combination] made a lot of sense for us."

To boost Let's Bowl's chances of success, the network has given it one of its plum programming slots, between The Man Show and South Park. "It's like Brooke Shields in Suddenly Susan," says Jansen. "I mean, even she was a hit because of where they put her." But whether the show ultimately proves a ratings strike or a gutter ball, Sedahl, for his part, is taking it one frame at a time. "We know it's funny," he says, "and I think the rest of the country will, too."

If nothing else, thanks to Let's Bowl, it's now a little harder to find a good clown in Minneapolis. ■

Do you have 48 hours to lose weight? We can help!

Finally...a diet that gives visible and dramatic results in the first 2 days.

The Hollywood Celebrity Diet is an incredible diet program that helps get you on your way to healthy living. It starts with making good decisions even before you begin. Hollywood Celebrity Diet preps you for two days of juice fasting with suggestions from Marilyn Joyce, the Hollywood Celebrity Diet's official Registered Dietician, and author of the book "5 Minutes to Health." To start off, the night you begin the juice fasting, it is suggested that you eat a low-fat, light, healthy meal. To help with the mentality of the diet, you must get rid of any foods that would be a temptation to you, such as desserts, potato chips and other high fat snacks. Then, get ready for two days of pampering yourself with your favorite herbal teas, bath items, videos or books. The reasoning behind this is so you get in the mindset of making every aspect of your body comfortable and healthy.

Weight loss doesn't have to stop after 2 days. The Hollywood Celebrity Diet begins with the QuickStart Juice, a delicious, all-natural citrus juice that can help you lose pounds and inches in just two days. This jumpstarts your weight loss while cleansing and detoxifying your body. After the completion of the juice diet, the Hollywood Celebrity Diet continues with a 3-day Transition Diet. To start with, the Fat Metabolizers Capsules help you to continue to burn fat and lose pounds. This is to provide a transition from the juice diet to a variety of foods that help keep the weight and fat off that you have just lost. Once homeless, Michael Easton reinvented himself with an acting career and now sinks his teeth into a juicy new role on ABC's Port Charles

On the set of the ABC daytime drama Port Charles, a dark, handsome lothario named Caleb is seducing the luscious Livvie, one of the show's most beloved heroines. His face is buried deep into her neck. "Yes, Caleb, yes!" Livvie sighs orgasmically, her breasts heaving, her eyelids fluttering. "I never dreamed it would feel this way." Just another cliché-ridden soap-opera love scene? Not quite: Caleb, played by Michael Easton, is a vampire, and Livvie, played by Kelly Monaco, is about to become his eternal bride. "The days are gone when soaps can get away with that 'Ooh, you're from a rich family and I'm poor so we can't date'-type crap," says the 34-year-old Easton, recalling the kinds of plots that drove Days of Our Lives when he starred on that soap in the early '90s. "Today you really have to stir things up." That he has. His bloodsucker story line—initially set to run just this summer

The Three Stooges Go Postal

Masters of Bedlam and Mayhem Stir New Stamp Riot!

Owings Mills, MD — Fans and collectors of the Three Stooges are "going postal" over the release of 9 Limited Edition postage stamps commemorating more than 70 years of madcap comedy entertainment. The overwhelming response to the stamps by the legions of Stogie fanatics has led at least one innocent bystander to dub the scene a "postage stamp-ede."

"Given the popularity of the Three Stooges, it wouldn't surprise me if these stamps became one of our most sought after issues ever," stated George Hubbard of the International Collectors Society, sole distributor of the stamps. "And collectors would do well to remember the laws of supply and demand. When you have many collectors chasing a limited number of issues, like in this set, the supplies can go quickly. Once that happens, there's no telling what will have to be paid on the open market to obtain the set. That's why it's essential that collectors move quickly."

Collectors are already predicting that in the very near future these stamps could be far more sought after and be more desirable than the U.S. Elvis stamp, the most popular stamp of all time.

"Over 500 million Elvis stamps have been issued. When you compare that to these colorful Three Stooges stamps, which are limited to just thousands of sets worldwide, you can see the irresistible appeal that these stamps have to stamp collectors and Three Stooges fans," added Hubbard.

The stamps are available for a short time at $9.95 (plus $3 p&h) for the complete set of nine different stamps, accompanied by an individually numbered Certificate of Authenticity and free pocket guide, "99 Little Known Facts About the Three Stooges." The most you can buy is six sets. Send your check or money order to International Collectors Society, 10045 Red Run Boulevard, Suite 350TGWTS4, Owings Mills, MD, 21117. Credit card holders may call but now extended into fall—has restored life to the corpse-like Port Charles, bringing the soap rave reviews and a buzz it had never before enjoyed. Better yet, young viewership has tripled. Much of the credit, says PC executive producer Julie Hanan Carruthers, must go to Easton, who also plays Caleb's good twin, the meek, bespectacled town priest Father Michael.

"He has brought such a level of believability and commitment to his roles that he has raised the bar for everyone," says Carruthers. "And I don't just mean other actors, but the boom operators, the camera crew, the makeup people, everybody." But what's in this daytime gig for Easton, who has starred in several prime-time shows of his own? "People think I'm doing this because I need the money," he says, "but I go where the work is interesting. I've never had a bias about mediums." Nor, outside of his suds work, has he ever had a hit. None of Easton's four nighttime series—Total Recall 2070 (1998), 413 Hope St. (1997), Two (1996) and VR.5 (1995)—lasted past one season.

"But I take solace in the fact that I keep getting hired," he says. "There are actors far more talented than me who can't even get an agent." Easton doesn't mind that he's best known for stripping naked on Ally McBeal, where he played Glenn, the generously endowed art-class model who posed for Ally and then bedded her. The recurring role has done wonders for his reputation. Says the single Easton: "I can't tell you how many people come up to me and say, 'So...is it true?' But, hey, any recognition is good, especially when it gets me a free coffee at Starbucks." Easton has come to appreciate such Hot-blooded blessings because there romance: was a time in his early Easton and twenties when he was—Monaco to put it bluntly—a homeless wino. "I went through a really destructive phase where I did a lot of alcohol and drugs and was just a mess," admits Easton, who at one point was so desperate for cash that he took a job agitating dogs that were being trained to attack. Many of his experiences are detailed in his acclaimed book of poetry Eighteen Straight Whiskeys (The Bowery Press), now in its second printing.

He credits the Los Angeles Mission, a homeless shelter on the city's skid row, with putting him on the straight and narrow, and his late mom, Joan, with keeping him there. She died in 1994, after a two-year bout with cancer, during which Easton quit acting and moved back to the family home in New York State to help care for her. (His father, Stewart, is an engineer; his younger brother, Keith, is a Navy pilot.) "In some strange way I feel my mom can see me now and that I need to live my life in a better way," Easton says. "There was a time when I was a real a--hole, but now I look at life with a different perspective. I've learned to be thankful." —Michael Logan

MICHAEL LOGAN ON SOAPS

A Bold Decision THE PHOENIX RISES AGAIN— BUT ON ANOTHER SOAP

Joseph Mascolo (above) has played the often "killed" but never quite dead Stefano DiMera on NBC's Days of Our Lives since the early '80s, and he is the most popular supervillain in the soap world. But it meant bubkes when it came time to renegotiate his contract last spring. After a prolonged dispute with Days, Mascolo took a hike (his farewell aired June 14) and joined the competition: Starting August 23, he'll be seen on CBS's The Bold and the Beautiful as a pushy tycoon (as yet unnamed) and likely love interest for Stephanie Forrester (Susan Flannery).

TV GUIDE: What happened with you and Days?

JOSEPH MASCOLO: That show has been very dear to my heart, and I really like [executive producers] Ken Corday and Tom Langan, but the negotiations weren't done right. After 18 years, I was asking for a little pat on the back for a lot of good work. They didn't know how to deal with that.

TVG: What did you

squabble over?

JM: It had to do with the time on the [next] contract. I did not feel what I wanted was outrageous, but Ken was afraid other actors would be coming to his door asking for the same thing. I said, "If we don't cooperate with each other, if we don't each give a little bit, I'm leaving." I felt it was very foolish on their part to allow things to go this way. I said, "If you want to cut your nose off to spite your face, that's fine." [Corday refused to comment.]

TVG: During those negotiations, you had interest from B&B but denied it to the press. Why didn't you use it to strike your dream deal at Days?

JM: Ken and Tom knew what was going on [with B&B]. The soap world is like one big warehouse. There are no secrets.

Actually, I had calls from several soaps.

TVG: Why pick B&B?

JM: Other shows just wanted another Stefano, but [B&B executive producer] Brad Bell had some very interesting ideas, and I trust him. He said, "I can't believe Ken will ever let you go, but if he does, I will create a part for you. I won't let you down."

TVG: Your fans are furious. I've been inundated with letters of complaint—and nails.

JM: What do you mean, "nails"?

TVG: The Mascolo freaks are sending them out as a symbol that your departure from Days is the last nail in the show's coffin. It's quite a campaign.

JM: I didn't know anything about that. [Laughs uproariously] That's very cute! I'm getting great letters of support, brilliantly written letters I'd love to show to Ken and Tom.

TVG: So you think they'll see the error of their ways? Might you someday return as Stefano?

JM: When [former Days writer] Pat Falken Smith created Stefano, she gave him the code name "The Phoenix" because he has a way of rising from the ashes. If Days is smart, they'll keep that aura out there.

THE WEB GETS A JUMP ON THE NEW "SPIDER-MAN" MOVIE

Tobey Maguire doesn't sling his way across movie screens until May 3, 2002, but fans hungry for every bit of information about the coming "Spider-Man" film can find plenty of webs being spun online. Sony's sleekly designed official site (www.spider-man-movie.com) is currently just a teaser destination, with cast bios, photos from the set, the film's first theatrical trailer, which debuted in July, and streaming video interviews with the cast, including Maguire, who will play Spidey and his alter ego, Peter

Parker. But serious Spider-philosophes don't have to wait for Sony to slowly expand its site as the release date approaches: Spider-Man Hype (www.spidermanhype.com) already has the real scoop. A spin-off of the movie news site Coming Soon (www.comingsoon.net), this fantastic resource is run by an international team of fans of the wall-crawling Marvel Comics character, with news, gossip and on-set photos provided via a loyal network of sources and fans. There's coverage of other "Spider-Man"-related projects, including the comic books, an in-development animated TV series and even updates on the official Sony site. ENEMY AT THE GATES (VHS and DVD, available now) The Battle of Stalingrad provides the setting for a contest of wills between a Russian sniper (Jude Law) and a Nazi sharpshooter (Ed Harris). A brutal war epic that delivers far more suspense than characterization. 15 MINUTES (VHS and DVD, available now) Robert De Niro plays a cop hunting two killers who are videotaping their crimes to sell to a tabloid-TV host (Kelsey Grammer). A mishmash of lurid thrills and facile media bashing, "15 Minutes" wallows in the same sensationalism it means to criticize. GET OVER IT (VHS and DVD, available now) A high school production of

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" parallels the plight of a dude (Ben Foster) who gets dumped and then falls for his best bud's sister (Kirsten Dunst). This effervescent teen comedy features a priceless cameo by Martin Short as a pompous drama teacher. HANNIBAL (VHS and DVD, available August 21) Dinner is served. Anthony Hopkins (above) reprises his Oscar-winning role as picky eater Hannibal Lecter in the sequel to 1991's "The Silence of the Lambs." While the movie may not have Jodie

Foster (though, as FBI agent Clarice Starling, Julianne Moore fills in quite nicely) or the chilling, understated creepiness of "Lambs," it builds to a horrifying finale guaranteed to test the strongest of stomachs. And if you're still hungry, feast on a special-edition DVD of the original, also available on August 21, which includes added scenes and interviews with Foster and Hopkins. WAITING FOR GUFFMAN (DVD, available August 21) Parker Posey, Fred Willard and Catherine O'Hara star in this hilarious cult classic from mockumentary master Christopher Guest (who also provides commentary) about a spectacularly untalented amateur theater troupe.

THE Robins REPORT

BY J. MAX
ROBINS

...And Randy Quaid as Tim Russert? IT'S SHOWTIME FOR THE INEVITABLE CABLE MOVIE OF POSTELECTION 2000

As political dramas go, you'd be hard-pressed to top the aftermath of the 2000 election. So it's no surprise that Showtime is making a movie of the turmoil that kept the nation spellbound for 37 days last year.

Expected to debut sometime in 2002, the film reunites several of the talents behind Strange Justice, the cable network's 1999 film that recounted the Clarence Thomas-Anita Hill saga and Thomas's controversial appointment to the Supreme Court. Aptly, this latest endeavor has the working title Strange Election.

"Within three days after the election, I called Jacob Epstein [who wrote the Strange Justice teleplay] and said, 'We have to get to work on what's unfolding,'" says Steven Haft, executive producer. "We knew right away that what was happening could be a terrific movie. You couldn't make up a more compelling drama."

While the Florida recount was unfolding, Haft approached Showtime's president of programming, Jerry Offsay, who quickly put the project into development. "The only question I had was, had people been so saturated with this story that they wouldn't be interested anymore?" says Offsay. "But it didn't take long to convince me that, like with Strange Justice, there was a great story that went beyond what the power brokers wanted the public to know."

What we want to know now, of course, is which actors and actresses will be chosen to play the presidential candidates, their wives and campaign operatives, not to mention the memorable politicians and lawyers in Florida. In that spirit, we invoked our columnist's executive privilege and assembled our own dream cast, at right.

"I'd love to have Paul Newman play [former secretary of state] James Baker," says Epstein. "[Baker's] a character with so much dimension—but I don't know if Newman [a longtime Democrat], with his politics, would want to play him."

According to Haft, Strange Election will tell the wild tale on three levels: through the candidates, their key operatives and the central players in Florida. Likewise, Offsay is adamant that Strange Election take viewers inside the corridors of power where postelection strategies took shape. As with Strange Justice, the Strange Election team wants to make a film that goes beyond the sound bites and headlines.

"We're not out to make a partisan film," says Epstein. "There is this incredibly rich human drama that was played out behind the scenes. You have these extraordinary characters, like Baker, who led the charge for Bush, and guys like [Gore's lead attorney] David Boies. Then you have people like [Florida secretary of state] Katherine Harris, who became almost this cartoon but is actually somebody who paid a horrible price [for] her time in the limelight."

Digging up the behind-the-scenes dish for the movie in Tallahassee and beyond is Jane Mayer, a staff writer at The New Yorker who also coauthored the book Strange Justice: The Selling of Clarence Thomas (Houghton Mifflin).

"I've been working on the movie exactly as if I was reporting the story,"

D.C. Disappearance Morphs Into Drama

DISTRICT SEASON OPENS WITH A LEVY-LIKE PLOT
When The District kicks off its second season September 22, viewers will notice that the plot mirrors the real-life mystery of missing congressional intern Chandra Levy.

"We decided to do a story based on [Levy] back in May, when her disappearance was a small news item on page 17 of the Washington Post," says District executive producer John Wirth. "We wanted to contrast how the police deal with the disappearance of a young woman connected to power and how they deal with a young woman without connections who disappears."

In the episode, Wirth says, the missing congressional intern's boss clashes with The District's police commissioner, Jack Manion (Craig T. Nelson). Again, there are parallels with says Mayer, a coproducer for the film. "I deliver the facts and leave it to the other guys to shape them into a screenplay. I'm glad it's not my job to boil it down to two hours."

Maybe they shouldn't try. Strange Election could be a miniseries.

The District's full Nelson

the Levy case and U.S. Rep. Gary Condit, who has been at odds with D.C. police. "People might accuse us of exploiting a tragic situation, but we're really exploring the plight of those who turn up missing and their loved ones," says Wirth.

Meanwhile, The District won't be the only series to use the Levy disappearance as inspiration. Network sources say Law & Order—long partial to episodes ripped from the headlines—has a Levy-based story in the works, too.

SUSAN STEWART'S HITS & MISSES

BRIEF REVIEWS OF THIS WEEK'S NOTABLE PROGRAMS

DALZIEL AND PASCOE: TIME TO GO

(Sat., A&E) TV A drug-drenched nightclub teaming with disaffected youth is the unlikely setting for the latest episode of this peerless British detective series. Det. Superintendent Dalziel (Warren Clarke) despises kids as well as drugs, but for all his bluster, he's a terrific, if sadistic, amateur psychiatrist when questioning suspects. We also meet loner Dalziel's ex-wife—who knew? This development adds another shade to a rich character who is as complex as the cases he solves. My score (0–10): 9

STRANGE FREQUENCY

(Sat., VH1) TV The Twilight Zone set to music: That's the notion behind this smart new anthology series (a two-hour movie debuted in January). The first episode stars Roger Daltrey (who also hosts) as a devilish talent agent who makes a Faustian bargain with an ambitious guitar player (James Marsters). The plot revolves around a piece of music—supposedly Jimi Hendrix's last song Sharp writing helps Frequency rise above its slightly puerile subjects to create genuine thrills and chills. My score: 7

Dern, Burstyn in Within These Walls

WITHIN THESE WALLS

(Mon., LIF) TV Here's a tip for actors: Never share a scene with a dog or Ellen Burstyn. You'll be upstaged every time. In this fact-based prison movie, Burstyn plays a fearsome felon turned to mush by a pooch named Gypsy. Naughty or nice, Burstyn is scarily effective. Playing the nun who started a prison dog-training program, Laura Dern shows her soft side, teaching the inmates to love their dogs and themselves. Life behind bars is depicted vividly, which helps mitigate the sentimentality of the story. My score: 7

SMALL SHOTS

(Wed., TNN) TV In this self-consciously wacky new series, two filmmakers in a Winnebago travel to Smalltown, USA, and cast people in movie spoofs. First they descend on Alton, Illinois, to make "Silence of the Yams" (the title is the funniest thing about it). Locals audition, doing their (awful) impressions of Hannibal Lecter. The setup cleverly punctures the pretentiousness of acting. But in the end, the joke's on the filmmakers:

An inferior script and cast make their five-minute movie more sophomoric than funny. My score: 4

BREAKING THE NEWS: A MUSEUM OF TELEVISION & RADIO SPECIAL

(Fri., CBS) Let us now praise famous newsmen and women—or listen as they praise themselves, albeit with insight and charm. This excellent special features the major network anchors plus reporters from Christiane Amanpour to Bernard Shaw, describing how they felt about their big stories. News is book-ended by Walter Cronkite footage: his sad announcement of JFK's death and his joyful one of the moon landing. For better or worse, these men and women help shape our worldview, and sometimes our world. News shows how seriously they take the job. My score: 10

PHIL MUSHNICK ON SPORTS

End of the Innocence STORIES OF ABUSIVE PARENTS HAVE LEFT LITTLE LEAGUES IN BIG TROUBLE

Read it and weep: Mel Narol, a 51-year-old Princeton, New Jersey-based attorney and former high school basketball referee has, for more than 20 years, held the quintessential sign-of-the-times job. He specializes in sports law, including the legal representation of youth- and recreational-league umpires and game officials who have been assaulted in the line of duty.

"In 1978, when I handled my first case, I'd be alerted to maybe one or two cases a year," says Narol. "Today, it's about one case per week."

During the past 20 years, as sportsmanship has been removed from our sports and civility has been deemed commercially unacceptable within sports, the price we are paying grows. As our sports, their partner TV networks and marketing strategists have peddled in-er-face trash talking, chest pounding and all forms of impudence as the acts and images they prefer, the bill has arrived in the form of proliferating horror stories.

The National Alliance for Youth Sports, with 2,200 chapters, recently reported that 15 percent of organized kids' games now include some form of verbal or physical abuse from parents, guardians and coaches. According to the organization, that's three times the rate just five years ago.

"Leagues throughout the country are losing game officials at an alarming rate," says Narol, a contributor to the sports-law column in the monthly magazine Referee. "These officials mostly work for peanuts or they're volunteers. They officiate for their love of the game and their regard for kids.... But they're dropping out left and right because they no longer can indulge the abuse that is heaped on them, and they fear for their personal safety."

Not kidding around: Bad behavior in youth sports has given Narol a busy caseload.

Think of your own relative reality. Where once you were horrified to read or hear about the softball umpire assaulted after the game or the pee-wee-football coach beaten by a player's father, these reports have become so commonplace that they're moving farther toward the back of the newspaper and the final minutes of the news broadcast. For crying out loud, we're becoming desensitized to the desensitization.

I've frequently heard that the paucity of sportsmanship is a cyclical phenomenon, like clothes fashion: What's old will become new again. But how can a generation of kids be returned to a place they've never been?

And we're now into a second consecutive generation in which sports serve as an acceptable—even approved—forum through which participants demonstrate their excessive, needless and senseless macho behavior. Kids who 20 years ago were among the first wave to be raised to regard sports as a stage on which to trash-talk, preen and exhibit menacing gestures are today's Little League parents. And it shows. And it grows.

"The preponderance of assaults on game officials occur within the lowest, youngest levels of competition," says Narol.

Consider that this is the generation of sports-minded children who have rarely, if ever, seen a professional athlete help a fallen opponent to his or her feet. Such a once-common act of consideration, if not contrition, was long ago declared unacceptable, a sign of weakness.

It would seem illogical, a pipe dream, to think that things will get better before they get worse.

"Doesn't it tell us something when 16 states have seen fit to enact legislation against assaulting officials and coaches?" says Narol. "And more states are coming. Doesn't it tell us something that we even need such legislation?"

CLOSE-UP SPORTS

Larry Nelson

From the Atlanta Athletic Club The season's final major concludes this weekend in Duluth, Ga. (Live)
The last PGA Tour event held here was the 1981 PGA Championship, won by Larry Nelson. Since then, the course has been remodeled twice—by Arnold Palmer in 1987 and Rees Jones in 1995—so this event should be a learning experience for everyone, says announcer Gary McCord. "It will take more homework. You have to walk the course with a couple of players and learn which holes you can attack and which you can't." It also makes it tough to pick a winner, but "at par 70, 7200 yards, it'll take someone with some muscle," predicts McCord.

"Courage Under Fire"

A fire starts, quickly engulfing a building... sending billows of smoke out of flame-filled windows. And in all the chaos, lives, families, homes, and memories hang in the balance. Fortunately for all of us, a battalion of bravery stands ready to fight the flames.

"Courage Under Fire" is a fully-sculptural collectible crafted to honor this heroic profession in intricate detail. At its center is a porcelain plate edged in 22K gold in the shape of the Maltese Cross—a symbol of protection and every firefighter's badge of honor. The central image of a firefighter is adorned with a low-relief hook and ladder and fire hydrant on each side.

Extensive hand-crafting, combined with an edition limit of 295 casting days and anticipated strong demand, could strain supply. To order this work at the $39.95 issue price, payable in two monthly installments of $19.98 (plus a total of $5.99 for shipping and handling), simply return the Reservation Application—order today!

The ability to portray the essence of America is a hallmark of Norman Rockwell's artistic genius. Now it's yours to enjoy in the Collectibles Market First: Norman Rockwell's Christmas Village. Rockwell's fanciful vision of Stockbridge lets you delight in cherished memories and timeless traditions that make Christmas a most special holiday.

The hand-crafted details of the exterior and fully sculptural interior of "Rockwell's Studio" are incredible. Look inside to see Rockwell put the finishing touches on a replica of his "Santa's Workshop." Every tiny part, even the figurine of Rockwell, is painted by hand! The stores are still brightly lit to entice last-minute shoppers while soft rays of welcoming light from the church, with a bell in the steeple that rings, add warmth to the twilight square.

After "Rockwell's Studio" and the FREE "All Tied Up" figurine, subscribers can look forward to more lighted sculptures and free figurines sent about every other month.

TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE. Unusually strong demand from generations of Rockwell collectors is anticipated, so don't wait to order! You need send no money now. Simply complete and mail the coupon.

MXI DALZIEL AND PASCOE: TIME TO GO (CC) FILM
SAT. 8 PM (A&E)

Dalziel and Pascoe (Warren Clarke, Colin Buchanan) investigate death and drugs at a dance club in this 2001 British TV-mystery. The detectives respond to a call about an overdose at a rave club and find that when the music stops, the silence is deafening—no one will discuss what happened. The victim dies, and the sleuths soon learn that the ecstasy he had taken was laced with poison.
They step up their investigation and begin hunting murder suspects. Among the more promising in the mix are

Buchanan,
Clarke

the club's enigmatic owners, a brother-and-sister duo (chillingly portrayed by real-life siblings
Andrew Lee Potts
and Sarah-Jane Potts) who are orphans with a bond that intimates something bizarre. (2:00)

look & feel good
Come home to Conair for everything you need!

CONAIR

The Ion Shine™ 1875 Watt Dryer
What it does is magic, how it works is science. Negatively charged ions neutralize positive charges, calm down "who needs it?" frizzies, and shine the hair.

Steam 'n Shine™
20 instant heat settings for all hair types, many barrel sizes for all hair styles and an easy one-hand-activated conditioning steam option.

Air Stream™ 1875
Built-in, easy pop-out concentrator focuses a wide strip of 20% more air to dry faster, with fewer "hot spots". It even helps straighten!

The Straight Styles™ Steamer!
It adds moisturizing steam for gobs of silky, sexy shine, knocks the stuffings out of pesty frizz and uncurls curls!

Quick Braid™
makes it fun... and fast! It's a first! This easy to use 'wand' twists braids automatically in seconds.

Come home to Conair for the

The Cord Keeper® to Go
The famous 'zip-zoom' dryer, that snaps up its cord when you want it gone, now follows you around in a portable folding handle version.

CLOSE-UP SEASON FINALE

SIX FEET UNDER (CC) F&D
SUN. 8 PM, 9 PM (HBO)
MON. 10 PM, 11 PM (HBO)

HBO's quirky series about a family-owned funeral home finishes its freshman year with potent back-to-back episodes. Six Feet Under will return for a second season, since the network renewed the series before its debut.

In the first hour, the Fishers' latest client is the result of a hate crime and David deals openly with his secret.

Also, Brenda makes a difficult decision about Billy (Jeremy Sisto) after several dangerous encounters.

In the second hour, written and directed by series creator Alan Ball, Gabriel (Eric Balfour) once again plays with fire; a doctor's news gives Nate (Peter Krause, pictured) pause, and the Fishers' pastor (Tim Maculan) comes under attack for his behavior. (1:00)

TEEN CHOICE AWARDS (CC)
MON. 7 PM 6 32 39 47

This gala aims to "tap into...the minds of the teen-pop culture," according to executive producer Bob Bain. To do that, Bain offers a slated duet featuring Backstreet Boy Nick Carter and his brother Aaron, plus performances by Usher ("U Remind Me") and Shaggy ("Angel"). Also featured are teen-voted awards in entertainment and sports categories. Among them are Choice Male and Female Hottie, Choice Sleazebag and Choice Hissy Fit. Scheduled presenters include "Hottie" nominees Britney Spears,

Freddie Prinze Jr. and Jessica Alba, as well as The Rock, Reese Witherspoon, pro skateboarder Tony Hawk, Mandy Moore, Sisqo and Carson Daly (2:00)

CLOSE-UP MOVIE

M* WITHIN THESE WALLS (CC)
MON. 8 PM (LIF)

Ellen Burstyn (pictured) and Laura Dern deliver heartfelt performances in this fact-based 2001 cable drama about a nun who teaches female prisoners how to train dogs to assist the disabled. It's nothing short of a miracle when Sister Pauline Quinn (Dern) enters the life of hardened criminal Joan Thomas (Burstyn). Joan is introduced to Sister Pauline's Prison Pet Partnership Program, which pairs select inmates with pups to nurture through their lessons. While the closely guarded Joan jumps at the chance to gain a canine companion, it's the human bond she develops with the ever patient and somewhat mysterious Sister Pauline that proves truly divine. FRI. 7 PM 2 3 23 58

Walter Cronkite in 1952

Veteran TV reporters, including Walter Cronkite, Barbara Walters, Tom Brokaw, Peter Jennings and Dan Rather, share their thoughts on covering some of the biggest news stories of their careers in this gripping documentary. Among their recollections: being in the line of fire in Vietnam, Sarajevo and Iraq; asking tough questions of world leaders, such as Bill Clinton, Yasir Arafat and Ayatollah Khomeini; witnessing global events like the tumbling of the Berlin Wall, the fall of Saigon and the massacre in Tiananmen Square; and being overcome by a story, such as JFK's assassination, the Oklahoma City bombing and the Challenger explosion. Mel Gibson narrates. (2:00)

CLOSE-UP ON A CLASSIC

FREE TO BE...YOU AND ME
FRI. 7 PM (TVL)

Kids Can Be...Kids The hair and the clothes are nearly 30 years out of date, but the "free to be...you and me" message stands the test of time.

Marlo Thomas (pictured, with pals) leads a star-studded cast in the 1974 Emmy-winning celebration of childhood. Sing-songy tunes, comical sketches and animated fairy tales not only entertain but educate, as gender stereotypes are smashed and kids receive a boost to their self-esteem. Among the highlights: baby puppets voiced by Mel Brooks and Thomas present life from a newborn's point of view; Michael Jackson and Roberta Flack sing "When We Grow Up"; football giant Rosey Grier sings "It's All Right to Cry"; and Alan Alda tells the story of "William's Doll." TV GUIDE'S STAR RATINGS

In this feature, theatrical movies are accompanied by star ratings of ★★★★★ (excellent), ★★★ (good), ★★ (fair) or ★ (poor). Our evaluations are based on a number of factors, including a consensus of leading critics, quality of cast and director, awards earned and box-office performance. Though movies may be edited for television, our ratings are based on the original, complete film. The absence of stars indicates an unrated movie. TV GUIDE does not evaluate movies if the criteria cannot be applied because too few facts are known (example: a minor foreign film), or if the film is made for television or released directly to video.

PARENTAL GUIDANCE

The official MPAA content rating (G, PG, PG-13, R or NC-17) is provided for every unedited film that has received one (NR: not rated). We also offer advisories about content (AT = adult themes, BN = brief nudity, N = nudity, SL = strong language, SS = sexual situations, V = violence). Parents should be aware that films containing adult themes or sexual situations frequently involve nudity, even though our advisory may not explicitly say so.

TVGUIDE HOROSCOPE

BY SALLY BROMPTON

ARIES (March 21-April 20) Although you have had the opportunity to let your hair down recently, Sunday's new moon in the most enjoyable angle of your chart gives you the chance for one final fling before you have to focus on more serious matters. You won't have to be asked twice.

For your extended Aries horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5558*

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) The sun enters one of the most positive angles of your chart on Thursday, which means that any anxieties you've had should soon evaporate. Decide what you would most like to do, and then—as long as it's legal—do it.

For your extended Taurus horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5559*

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) Your ruler, Mercury, forms a difficult aspect with restrictive Saturn, meaning you must make allowances for loved ones whose expectations outweigh your abilities. They have their problems, but don't let them become yours.

For your extended Gemini horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5560*

CANCER (June 22-July 23) This is a time to forget your worries and focus on making contacts and meeting people. The sun enters the most outgoing angle of your chart this week, encouraging you to get out and about. Someone you meet over the next few weeks will help you achieve a goal.

For your extended Cancer horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5561*

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) The cosmic high-light is moving toward your finances, which may not be welcome but could be beneficial. Take a close look at what you earn, save and spend. Despite how aware you happen to be, there are still improvements to be made and money to be saved.

For your extended Leo horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5562*

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) The sun in your birth sign after Thursday will boost your confidence, but until then you must be careful what you write and say. Something good is about to happen and a word in the wrong place could jeopardize its success.

For your extended Virgo horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5563*

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) As you approach the final month of your solar year, you need to take stock and decide what could be improved upon—and how. Be as honest as you can, but don't judge yourself too harshly. Everyone makes mistakes.

For your extended Libra horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5564*

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The sun enters the most idealistic angle of your chart on Thursday, encouraging you to think about the things you've done in recent weeks. If they fail to live up to close inspection, don't be afraid to make changes. But remember: no one expects you to be a saint.

For your extended Scorpio horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5565*

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Success is important to you, and never more so than this time of year, when the sun crosses the midheaven point of your chart. If you're single-minded about your aims and ambitions, you can work toward achieving them.

For your extended Sagittarius horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5566*

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Yours may not be the most adventurous sign in the zodiac, but you're now being encouraged to take the kind of risks you would normally reject. You don't have to do anything too drastic, just rely on luck a little more.

For your extended Capricorn horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5567*

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) Sunday's new moon in your opposite sign of Leo signals the start of a new phase in one of your relationships. With a business or financial matter coming onto the agenda, it will benefit you to work with your partners, rather than against them. It will help them, too.

For your extended Aquarius horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5568*

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) With partnership issues moving to the top of your list of priorities, you can no longer afford to ignore the views or wishes of someone close. It's not a case of pandering to their whims, but of sustaining the relationship—unless, of course, you'd rather not bother.

For your extended Pisces horoscope, call: 1-900-825-5569*
